By The Associated Press.

NANKING, July 19.—The Domei (Japanese) news agency reported today that the Japanese army has served a "last warning" on China to settle the North China crisis on Japan's terms or face war.

The virtual ultimatum, Domei said, was delivered to General Ho Ying-Chin, Chinese minister of war, and General Cheng Chien, Chinese chief of staff, by Major General Seichi Kita, Japanese military attaché in China.

The news agency said Gen. Kita told the Chinese commanders they must "disregard minor differences" on the settlement of the dispute and "save the situation by prompt withdrawal of central (Nanking government) troops and air forces to their original station."

Chinese officials announced that Foreign Minister Wang Chung-Hui had arranged to meet Shinroku Hidaka, the Japanese chargé d'affaires, at 8 a. m. Tuesday to continue efforts to find a basis for further negotiations.

This was considered to dispose of earlier reports that Hidaka in a virtual ultimatum had demanded a satisfactory Chinese communication, accepting Japan's demands, by midnight.

The Chinese foreign office published the text of a note Minister Wang sent the Japanese embassy this evening, proposing withdrawal of troops of both sides from the North China trouble zone and opening of diplomatic negotiations for a settlement between the two national governments.

Any local settlement, the note said, "shall be subject to the sanction of the Chinese government."

The Chinese foreign minister said the movements of Japanese troops in north China, "which have not ceased, indicate the clear intention of Japan to resort to force."

Nevertheless, he said, although "circumstances have forced China to take precautionary measures of self defense, the national government (of China) has not relaxed its efforts for peace."

TOKYO, July 19.—The Japanese army command at Tientsin served an ultimatum on the Chinese military, declaring it would "take independent action" unless all Chinese firing against Japanese ceased immediately and troops not withdrawn from the disputed area west of Peiping.

This threat followed a renewal of fighting in the zone west of Peiping, where Japanese and Chinese troops have been in intermittent conflict since July 7.

Its grim notice to the Chinese was said to declare that unless all Chinese firing ceased the Japanese would be given time Tuesday, presumably any time after midnight (10 a. m. Monday, CST).

(Another Japanese version was that the deadline was set at noon Tuesday (10 p. m. Monday, C. S. T.))

TOKYO, July 19.—A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Tientsin tonight said fighting had broken out again between Chinese and Japanese troops west of Peiping in spite of a military agreement reached yesterday at Tientsin.

Japanese officers said Chinese soldiers engaged in the construction of a concrete pillbox at Lukouichow, on the Yungting river 10 miles west of Peiping, opened fire on a Japanese unit. Other details were lacking, but Japanese said they took a grave view of the incident.

It was near Lukouichow that the first Sino-Japanese clash occurred 12 days ago.

The Chinese government vigorously protested that Japanese scouting planes had machine-gunned Chinese troop and supply trains in Hopeh province, violating China's territorial sovereignty.

The Chinese counter-charge came but a short time after the Japanese government had officially accused China of aggravating the tense north China crisis by a direct aggression against Japanese interests.

A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Nanking said the Chinese government had informed Japan it could not accept the Japanese demand for a local settlement of the conflict in north China and that any agreement must have Nanking's approval.

This communication was handed to Shinroku Hidaka, Japanese chargé d'affaires, by a representa-

RAIN IN COUNTY IS VERY WELCOME

Reports from farmers in various parts of the county today indicate that the rain Sunday was a very general one. Particularly welcome was it in the eastern part of the county, where they have not received the recent rains as have other districts.

In Sedalia the precipitation was .55 of an inch, which is about the average in other parts of the county.

The rain will be especially helpful to pastures, corn and cane.

The thermometer today registered 78 degrees at noon, while a year ago it was 104, one of the hottest days of last summer.

SEARCH FOR FUNDS THOUGHT HIDDEN BY SLAIN BANDIT

Holdup Victims Identify Turpin as Man Who Robbed Them

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 19.—Officers were searching today for $10,000 which they believed was hidden by Mearle James Turpin, 46, a bank robber killed in a gun fight with state highway patrolmen near here Saturday night.

Approximately $12,000 of the $22,000 taken by the robber in a holdup of the Citizens Bank here Thursday was recovered in a vinegar jar found in his car, and from his clothing. Officers surmised he either had hidden the remainder of the money or split with a confederate.

Sheriff John Pierpont identified the robber as a Springfield man who was released from Leavenworth federal prison five years ago after serving 12 years of a 25-year term for train robbery.

Detective Chief Ruel N. Womack said the victims of several holdups here in the last year identified the body as that of the man who robbed them, J. W. Chilton, Jr., of the Farmers and Merchants Bank said the dead bandit had "every appearance" of being the one who took $1,450 from him in 1933.

The gun fight started when Patrolmen H. G. Brooks and R. N. Kidson came upon a car bearing a license number for which they were watching. The car failed to halt at the sound of the patrolmen's siren, Brooks said, and the bandit opened fire.

A pellet from Turpin's shot-gun hit Eldon's fountain pen and was deflected to his right arm inflicting a slight wound. Brooks dropped the man with a rifle bullet through the right chest.

Turpin was buried yesterday at Monett, his boyhood home, where he once was pitcher on a baseball team.

CONTINUANCE FOR KENYON BE ASKED

ALTON, Mo., July 19.—Prosecuting Attorney Will D. Roberts of Howell County, said today he has learned William Costello of Kansas City, attorney for Robert Kenyon, 23-year-old Missouri farm hand held for the kidnap-slaying of Dr. J. C. B. Davis at Willow Springs, will ask for continuance when the case comes up in circuit court here tomorrow.

Costello, who was in this district today interviewing witnesses, would not discuss his plans, however.

Roberts had previously said he would demand the death penalty for Kenyon. Dr. Davis, 67-year-old physician who disappeared January 20 after being unmoned on a fake medical call. His bullet torn body was found in a thicket 13 miles south of Willow Springs a week later. Kenyon was arrested and made a "full confession," according to announcement by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation at Washington.

FOES OF COURT BILL WILL CALL FOR EARLY VOTE

Motion To Send Measure
Back To Committee
Is Contemplated

LEHMAN AGAINST PROPOSED CHANGE

Writes Senator Wagner
Asking Him To Voice
Opposition

ABOARD SPECIAL CONGRESSIONAL TRAIN, July 19.—Opponents of the President's court bill announced today they would seek a senate vote on that bitterly-fought issue early this week.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), a leader of the opposition, said a motion to send the supreme court reorganization measure back to committee for further study probably would be made tomorrow, and added:

"We are confident we can carry the motion by a comfortable margin."

His announcement was virtually the first public statement on the court controversy made by any member of the congressional delegation which accompanied the body of Senator Robinson (D-Ark.) to his Little Rock home for burial.

If the motion to recommit the bill is carried, it would effectively bury the measure for the rest of this session.

Burke's challenge was quickly accepted by Senator Minton (D-Ind.), one of the court bill's most vigorous defenders, who declared:

"We are ready to vote any time, and I know that we can win."

Other opposition leaders privately agreed with Burke's prediction that a vote would come a few hours after his special train, carrying 39 senators, reaches Washington. They declined, however, to make any public statement.

Foes of the bill scheduled a club-caucus for this evening, when they will work out final details of their strategy.

Vice President Garner, who joined the party at Little Rock, told senators he would take no part in the court controversy, nor in the equally close-drawn struggle for the senate leadership.

He conferred today with both candidates for the leadership, Senators Barkley (D-Ky) and Harrison (D-Miss.).

Postmaster General Farley continued his consultations with senators on both sides of the court issue, but persons to whom he had talked said little progress had been made toward working out a compromise.

Burke declared bluntly he would "fight to the last ditch" any compromise, particularly one which Farley and his aides were said to have discussed informally during the trip. It would exempt present members of the supreme court from the application of any reorganization measure congress might enact.

In Washington, some legislators expressed the belief President Roosevelt wants to await disposition of the court bill controversy before appointing a successor to Supreme Court Justice Van Devanter.

If congress should adjourn shortly after the court fight ends, or is put aside, they pointed out, senate confirmation might be held up.

Not every confirmation is voted quickly. President Wilson submitted the name of Louis Brandeis on Jan. 28, 1916, but it was not confirmed until June 1.

A recess appointment after adjournment of congress is not without precedent, but observers said it might be embarrassing if the senate later refused to approve the nominee.

Many persons in Washington hold the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt intended to appoint the late Senator Robinson of Arkansas to the vacancy. Senate confirmation probably would have been speedy, for most of Robinson's colleagues had urged his selection.

Among those whose names frequently have been mentioned in connection with an appointment to the high court are Attorney General Cummings, Solicitor General Stanley Reed; Chairman James M. Landis of the securities exchange commission; Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan; Justin Miller of the board of tax appeals; Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora of New York; Judge Learned Hand of the second circuit court of appeals, and Samuel Rosenman of New York.

Opposition by Lehman

ALBANY, N. Y., July 19.—Governor Herbert H. Lehman, once "the good right arm" of the President, in a letter to U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner, (D) New York, today asked him to voice opposition to President Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization bill as "not in the best interests of the country."

Lehman, Democratic successor to President Roosevelt as New York's governor, told Wagner that "the President is already familiar with my views with regard to the bill."

RAIN HEAVY IN PARTS OF STATE

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—General rain, heavy in some portions of the state, last night brought welcome relief from sweltering temperatures and in addition provided a much-needed stimulant for Missouri crops.

The precipitation was heaviest in the west and south portions of the state, and lightest in the east. Rains have been general over the middle west with heavy amounts in Nebraska, Missouri and Eastern Kansas, United States Forecaster Roscoe Nunn said.

Rolla reported the heaviest rainfall this morning, 3.87 inches. West Plains had 3.02, and Warsaw, 2.40. Other cities in the state recorded lighter amounts, with the following readings: Springfield, 1.95; Carthage, 1.25; Cape Girardeau, 1.82; Maryville, 1.15; Joplin, 1.15; St. Joseph, 1.20; Columbia, 1.13; and Kidder, 1.08.

Only light rains were reported at Sedalia, with .55; Poplar Bluff, .89; Jefferson City, .80; Hannibal, .34; Kansas City, .39; and St. Louis, .32.

In several portions, the rain was accompanied by high winds which caused considerable damage. Telephone and electric lines were reported impaired at Joplin and Maryville, while at Columbia several children were injured by flying glass when windows were blown out of homes.

Temperatures dropped from the 80's to the 70's in most portions following the rain, with lower readings reported from several points.

TEN YEARS PRISON TERM TO PAL OF WILLIS ARMOUR

In Confession Refers To Friend in Jail Here
For Car Theft

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Mo., July 19.—Frank Sanders, recently arrested at Higbee, Mo., while unloading allegedly stolen merchandise, was in the state penitentiary today to serve a 10-year sentence for burglary and larceny.

Sanders pleaded guilty in connection with the robbery of a (Shell) filling station here and was taken to Jefferson City Saturday.

Two other men were arrested in investigation of a series of robberies in this section and Prosecutor Tom Proctor said he believed Sanders was a pal of Willis Armour now held at Sedalia on robbery charges. Proctor said Sanders had served two terms in Leavenworth prison.

Sheriff W. L. Martin today received a copy of a confession made by Sanders, sent by Sheriff Russell Wilkes, of Paris, Mo. In the confession Sanders referred to his friend Armour, stating he had been in Sedalia with him on one or two occasions, and implicating Armour in the theft of a filling station between Fort Scott and Pittsburg, Kas.

The confession told of the theft of a car in Pittsburg, by Sanders, which was driven from Higbee to Sedalia by Armour, and wrecked north of Sedalia Sunday afternoon, June 13, when it collided with one driven by Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Parker.

Armour is being held in jail here for the theft of a car owned by Phil Russell, automobile dealer.

OIL TRUCK DRIVER SHOT TO DEATH WITH PISTOL

MARSHALL, Mo., July 19.—(P)—Frank Durrett, an oil truck driver, was shot to death with a pistol last night. The coroner said it was a case of either accident or suicide, with no motive known to support the latter theory. Durrett was married and had two children.

Still Opportunity To Subscribe To Collins Family Relief Fund

While the progress of the Relief Fund being raised by a sympathetic public for the bereaved family of the late W. J. Collins, chief fireman who lost his life while rendering a public service in the performance of his duty as a fire fighter has slackened some, yet we are sure that there are yet many who have not made their subscription to this fund, who wish to do so, but have not yet gotten around to it. Let these subscriptions come in until everyone has done their part.

For the information of the public the committee in charge composed of John Luck, chief of the fire department, John O'Brien, chief of police, and W. P. Stanley, and L. J. Harned, brother of the widow of the deceased fireman, met Monday morning to ascertain the best way to handle this fund to the best interests of the Collins family. They came to this conclusion, to deposit the whole of the money in the banks with authority by the committee and with the consent of Mrs. Collins for Mr. Harned to handle it in the future.

Serious consideration was given to the matter of paying off the indebtedness on the Collins home and giving the property the necessary repairs and painting. After this has been done the remainder of the fund is to be used from month to month for living expenses of the widow and children.

The places for leaving your subscriptions are as formerly, the Third National Bank, Sedalia Bank and Trust Company, Union Savings Bank, Boles Drug Store, East End Drug Store, Police Headquarters and the Sedalia Democrat and Capital.

OVERFLOW CROWD AT UNION SERVICES

An overflow crowd listened to the special singing and the sermon by the Rev. Dr. R. A. Waggoner last night at the union service at Liberty Park. All the park benches assembled at the hand shell were filled, and many persons remained in their cars around the area or stood back of the seats.

After the opening hymn by the congregation, the Colored Legionnaire Quartet sang four entertaining songs, their introduction song and three spirituals, all unaccompanied.

The Community Presbyterian Church of Green Ridge was represented at the service by their pastor, choir, and a number of the members. "The Holy City" by Adams was sung by Miss Ream of that church, and the male quartet also sang an anthem. Next, Rev. D. A. Moore read the scripture lesson.

The Rev. R. A. Waggoner in his address used the words of Paul to Timothy, "Remember Jesus Christ." The conviction of Christ in overcoming the evils of the world, and his broad sympathy in helping those in trouble was held up by Dr. Waggoner as examples for all of us to follow.

The service was the third of the summer program arranged by the Ministerial Alliance. Next Sunday evening the Rev. K. DeFreese of Trinity Lutheran Church will be the preacher.

PICCARD DROPS INTO TREETOPS IN CLUSTER BALLOON

Charred Wreckage All That is Left—Instruments all Destroyed

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 19.—Dr. Jean Piccard announced today he expected to make a stratosphere flight in a new type aircraft made up of many small balloons which his ascension yesterday proved is practical.

LANSING, Iowa, July 19.—Twisted and charred wreckage in an isolated farmland valley treetop was all that remained today of Dr. Jean Piccard's unique multi-ballooned aircraft in which he made a six-hour experimental flight from Rochester, Minn.

The landing point was about 75 miles from Rochester.

Dr. Piccard was non-committal as to whether the flight had determined feasibility of using a cluster of small sounding balloons in place of the conventional single large bag for stratosphere explorations.

Dr. Piccard escaped from his flaming "bath tub" gondola with nothing more than singed hair. But the fire melted the metal of the gondola, burned away most of the ropes and shrouds, and destroyed all the instruments.

The scientist said the fire might have been caused by the explosion of TNT which he detonated in order to facilitate the ascent. The explosive blasted away the upper half of the 55 four-foot balloons filled with hydrogen gas.

NEW RECORD SET ON WHEAT RECEIPTS

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—Grain men said today that the 8,129,000 bushels of wheat unloaded and placed in storage here last week set a new record. The previous mark was a little above 5,000,000 bushels, set only two weeks ago.

Last week's arrivals brought the total to 12,309,000 bushels. This compared with 11,500,000 bushels a year ago.

HEAVIEST BATTLE IN SPANISH CIVIL WAR IS RAGING

Insurgents Launch Furious Drive To Hurl
Loyalists Back

HEAVY LOSSES TO BOTH SIDES ENSUE

In The Air an Estimated
160 Planes Engaged
In Bombings

MADRID, July 19.—The heaviest battle of the Spanish civil war thus far raged west of Madrid today as insurgents launched a fierce drive to hurl government troops back to the capital.

In London, Great Britain announced a demand had been made on insurgents to release the British merchantman Molton, captured by insurgents.

Insurgent and government planes and artillery crashed bombs and shells into opposing lines near Brunete, newly-won government position 12 miles west of Madrid.

In the air, an estimated 160 planes fought for supremacy, with government forces gradually gaining a slight advantage.

The insurgent air force renewed a smashing bombardment of government front lines and communication routes. A duel between big guns—ranging in size from three to 10 inches—echoed all day in the capital.

Besides the Brunete spearhead into insurgent lines, government forces kept chipping at insurgent positions closer to Madrid.

Government guns shelled a military camp near upper Carabanchel outside the southern limits of the city. Government aircraft followed up with a heavy bombardment of the camp, where insurgents have concentrated a reserve contingent in former airforce barracks.

The fighting brought heavy losses to both sides, but government officers declared insurgents suffered heaviest casualties.

A government official said the fighting unquestionably was the heaviest of the war.

Insurgent artillery shelled the government positions yesterday for two hours before infantry swept forward behind tanks in an attempt to storm government trenches.

A defense ministry communique declared 28 insurgent planes were shot down during the air battle while the government counted only one missing plane.

Insurgent reports at Hendaye stated, however, that only one insurgent craft was lost in the engagement and that 25 government planes were shot down by insurgent aircraft.

(The insurgent dispatches said General Francisco Franco's forces gained ground north of Quijorna on the western front, forcing the government to abandon a trench line, an anti-aircraft battery, four tanks and a dozen machineguns.)

London advices said two British warships steamed out from St. Jean De Luz, France, after the admiralty announced a British merchantman, the Candleston Castle, had been "captured by an insurgent warship inside Spanish territorial waters. An admiralty spokesman denied, however, that the sudden departure of the battleship Royal Oak and the destroyer Basilisk was connected with the British ship's capture.

Right after this announcement, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden disclosed to the house of commons that Great Britain has demanded release of the captured Molton.

Eden said the demand was sent to insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco through Sir Herbert Chilton, British ambassador to Spain who is at Hendaye.

Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the admiralty, announced last Wednesday that the British ship had been captured by the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera.

An official announcement in Berlin, Germany, said a series of agreements to promote trade between Germany and insurgent Spain have been signed at Salamanca, insurgent capital.

Insurgents Claim Gains

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 19.—(P)—Insurgent advices declared today that government forces have been pressed back from Brunete, on the front west of Madrid.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops, dispatches said, hurled their whole strength against the government's advance lines and advanced past Brunete on two sides without occupying the town.

Government reports declared the defense lines were holding all major positions against the counter-offensive.

Brunete, 12 miles from Madrid, and Quijorna, about five miles northwest of Brunete, were said to be aflame. Both towns were on the tip of the government's finger-like salient west of the capital.

TO CALL SPECIAL GRAND JURY IN A MURDER CASE

Hammer Used by Minister
In Slaying Woman
Is Identified

PITTSFIELD, Ill., July 19.—Judge A. Clay Williams said this afternoon he would call a special grand jury to consider first degree murder charges against the Rev. C. E. Newton, charged with slaying Mrs. Dennis Kelly. The grand jury will report Friday morning.

PITTSFIELD, Ill., July 19.—Two Kansas City attorneys—M. S. Turner and Daniel T. Johnson—conferred for nearly two hours today with the Rev. C. E. Newton, accused slayer, in his jail cell.

After the conference Johnson said the minister would plea innocent but declined to outline the defense planned for the 51-year-old Paris, Mo., Baptist minister who is charged with slaying Mrs. Dennis Kelly, 45, his devoted friend and former parishioner.

Turner and Johnson arrived by motor car with Noel and Forrest Newton, sons of the minister.

State's Attorney Merrill Johnston planned to ask the circuit court this afternoon to recall the April term grand jury at once to consider the case against Newton. Johnston said he had not questioned the minister today or developed any new major angles not included in Newton's 11-page statement in which the Pike county official quoted him as saying he hit the woman over the head with a hammer and tossed her body into the Mississippi river.

The wiry, gray-haired pastor and former mayor of Kahoka, Mo., spent a calm weekend in his cell in the calm weekend in his cell in the confronted with a hammer Johnston described as "the bloodstained death weapon."

"That's the hammer," Johnston quoted Newton as saying when it was shown him. The comment was made without any display of emotion.

The hammer was found by Ray Englehart, a farmer, about 20 feet from a pool of blood where Newton and Mrs. Kelly struggled after an argument last Monday night as he aided her on a flight from home and husband, Johnston said.

At Paris, Mo., Prosecutor Tom Proctor said Miss Myra Hanan, adopted daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Newton, had resigned her job as farm bureau secretary. Miss Hanan turned over to authorities $1,930 carried by Mrs. Kelly when she left her home. Authorities said Miss Hanan told them Newton gave her the money a few hours before Mrs. Kelly's body was recovered from the Missouri river at Louisiana, Mo.

TELL ROTARIANS ABOUT JAMBOREE

Rotarians, meeting at noon today at Hotel Bothwell, heard interesting reports from four Boy Scouts who attended the national jamboree in Washington, D. C. They were Kelly Edgington, Charles Lieberman, Fred Rockelman and "Billy" Milton.

Kelly Edgington, who presided over the scouts part of the program, told of the trip to and from Washington, side trips taken to Harper's Ferry, New York, Washington, D. C., and Niagara Falls, and of some of the interesting places they visited in Washington.

Fred Rockelman spoke of the activities in Washington, of the arrangements of the camp and some of the activities there. Charles Lieberman made a short talk on scouting in general and what the jamboree meant to the boys. The purpose of a jamboree was explained by "Billy" Milton, who told how scouts so assembled exchanged ideas and views, and of the officers, and their self-sacrificing in the interest of the scouts. He said the jamboree certainly was well worth while and expressed the opinion it was unfortunate that more boys could not attend.

Guests, other than members were, Rotarian George Peake, of Tucson, Ariz., and Sam Milton, guest of his brother, Harry Milton.

AMELIA EARHART AND NOONAN ARE GIVEN UP AS DEAD

Mystery of the Attempted World Circling Lies in Waters of Pacific

GREATEST SEARCH FOR FLIER ENDS

Doubted that any of Numerous Radio Messages
Were Authentic

By The Associated Press.

HONOLULU, July 19.—The mystery of Amelia Earhart lay locked in the silent water wastes of the vast Pacific today. Four naval vessels and 1,500 men who sought her and her navigator 16 days gave them up for dead and sailed for home.

More than 250,000 square miles of equatorial ocean, reefs and islands were scouted by ship and plane in an almost hopeless search for the tousel-haired aviatrix and her companion, Capt. Frederick J. Noonan, who dropped from sight July 2.

Somewhere near the dot which is Howland Island, Miss Earhart and Noonan dropped from the skies in their fuelless land plane on a 2,570-mile flight from Lae, New Guinea, to the mid-Pacific sandspit.

The 39-year-old woman flier, known the world over for her aviation exploits, was circling the earth "just for fun," she said, but also to blaze possible new commercial routes.

The great naval hunt, which began a few minutes after the pair were overdue at Howland, was called off late yesterday when navy authorities decided they had exhausted every possibility of ever finding the missing fliers.

The closing order crushed the last hope of rescue held by George Palmer Putnam, motion picture executive husband of Miss Earhart, who obtained leave from his duties to further her world-flight plans.

Husband Appreciative

"I am deeply appreciative of what the navy has done," the grief-stricken husband declared in Los Angeles. "That is all I can say."

For days after Miss Earhart disappeared, Putnam kept ceaseless vigil at coast guard radio headquarters, confident the army of searchers would find his wife and Noonan.

The aircraft carrier Lexington, with its brood of 63 fighting planes, and three destroyers were the last searching vessels. Last week the doughty coast guard cutter Itasca, the minesweeper Swan and the battleship Colorado steamed toward this point after searching thousands of square miles by air and sea.

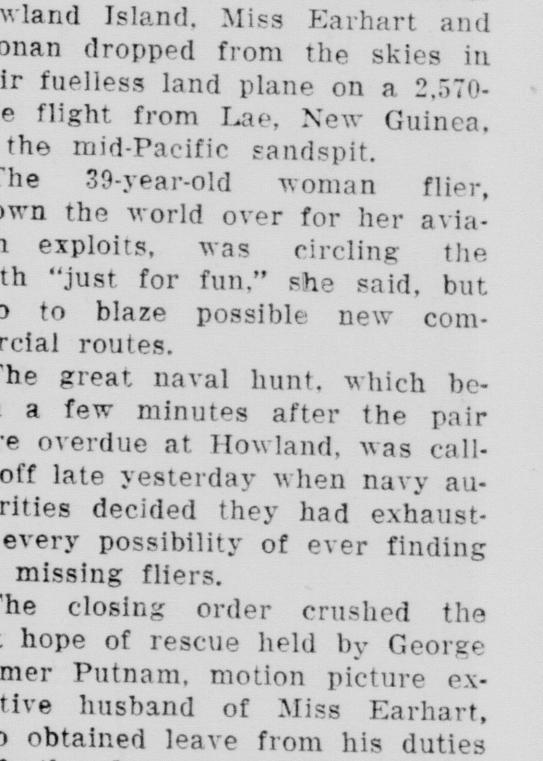

Beginning with the search by the Itasca and Swan, stationed in the vicinity of Howland to aid the fliers in event of trouble, and culminated by the arrival of the Lexington, the search attained magnitude never before seen.

By air and sea, the search extended for a radius of between 300 and 600 miles around Howland, 1,500 miles south of here. Bolstered by what some officials thought might be radio distress signals from Miss Earhart's "flying laboratory," the search made an ever widening circle around the tiny island. All possible land havens were covered

THE COIN OF LIVES

Dr. Herbert J. Stack, director of the Educational Division of the National Conservation Bureau, has started on a "transcontinental tour for traffic safety." His trip, which will cover ten or more states, is designed to assist the national movement to make good driving instruction a standard part of high school curricula. He will attend summer sessions of colleges and universities, lecture and hold conferences with teachers.

If Dr. Stack's trip succeeds in arousing enthusiasm for driving education, the inevitable results in a large number of thousands of lives. At the present time, traffic safety is taught in a large number of progressive schools. During years in which accident fatalities to adults have steadily increased, accidents and fatalities to children of school age have gone down.

School driving courses need not be costly. The main thing is proper planning that will adequately enlist the interest of students and appeal to their imaginations as well as to their senses of self preservation and civic responsibility. Once a boy or girl is taught the vital safety rules of the road, he will never forget them. In the formative years, ineradicable habits are established—good as well as bad.

Every town in the country should teach traffic safety. No course can provide bigger dividends—in dollars as well as the infinitely more valuable coin of lives.

BUBONIC PLAGUE IN THE WEST

Warning of bubonic plague in Western states do not carry the alarm that they would have carried fifty years ago, for medical science and modern sanitation may be relied upon to prevent a return of the scourge. The peril should be recognized, but there need be no panic because of references to the extent to which the plague swept away its victims in the past.

San Francisco learned its lesson at the beginning of the century, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. "When the plague first took its human victims in that city there was a concerted effort to deny the existence of the disease. The question of its presence was made a political issue. When the truth about it became plain, appropriate steps were taken, and the spread of the disease among mankind was stopped. Its existence among the ground squirrels soon after was discovered and its spread was predicted. Now it appears that the prediction was correct.

"San Francisco is not the only American city in which the plague has appeared, but it has not claimed victims in such numbers as to suggest epidemics comparable to those of the past. There is small likelihood that it ever will."

Dr. C. R. Eskey, senior surgeon of the United States Public Health Service at San Francisco, has said that in the spread of the bubonic plague among ground squirrels there might be a menace to human beings living as far east as the Ohio river. Speaking before the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. Eskey placed emphasis on the statement that "this is the same infection that has ravished the populations of many countries in the past, and is a great potential danger to the inhabitants of this country."

There is no question of the danger, but, fortunately, the public health service and other agencies have developed methods of combating the plague and other epidemic diseases. In the previous century travelers were often required to present a bill of health before they were permitted to enter communities.

MORE SENTENCED IN GERMANY

From St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Nazis have scored another great propaganda victory in their war on religion. One of their controlled courts, this time at Trier, has convicted and sentenced 15 Catholics, arrested in the cloisters of the order of the Good Samaritan, on charges of immorality. The news will be broadcast over the length and breadth of Germany as further evidence that church institutions are dens of corruption, that children are in the gravest peril when sent there for religious instruction.

One detail will not be stressed: that of these 15, two were employees of the order and 13 were lay members. These lay members are chiefly delinquents, given refuge by monasteries and convents after the war and during the depression, as an act of Christian charity. They took no vows; they are merely menials in the institutions. Their offenses have been punished by the church itself, and the records of these church trials, running back for years and seized in raids by the Nazis, are the evidence for the present series of prosecutions. The great majority of those convicted in the hugely publicized immorality trials have been members of this group. Because of offenses by these persons, the whole institution of church, with all its good works, moral influence and selfless service, has been condemned by the anti-religious rulers of Germany.

Despite such persecutions, both the Catholics and the Protestant churches in Germany are standing fast against the Nazi war on religion. In a land enveloped by tyranny, only the churches have the courage to defy the tyrants.

NO EXCUSE FOR LATE SLEEPERS

From the Minneapolis Journal.

Surely in summer it is good fortune to awaken early. The day is at the morn and morning is much earlier than seven o'clock. The birds know this and are about early to greet the rising sun. One of the best times to hear bird music is early in the morning. From bough and bush the great bird chorus rises to greet the dawn. How glorious and majestic is the break of day upon a clear summer morning!

The wrens are there to grace the occasion and under one's window they serve as most delightful alarm clocks. One would hardly suspect that these tiny, cinnamon-brown birds would command such a volume of sound. Wrens are small birds, about one-fourth smaller than the English sparrow and appearing to be much smaller still because of the erect way in which they hold their tails.

Although so small, the house wrens must be counted among the birds which have become famous because of some characteristic of their songs. Some others among the great feathered singers are the red-breasted grosbeak, the Baltimore oriole, the catbird, the song sparrow and several of the thrushes.

The wren's song consists of a warble, but not so deep, rich and full as that of the robin or grosbeak. The wren's song is not slowly turned and liquid like that of the veery, nor gathered into clusters of notes and distinctive strains of calm, sweet solemnity like those of the hermit thrush.

The warble of the wren is very rapid and cheerful, shrill and sweet. It reminds one of a little mountain stream, long bound and locked by winter ice, at last bubbling forth into the sunshine and rippling along its way in merry cascades or in miniature torrents of ecstasy. The wren's song lacks solemnity and dignity, but it has a fountain-like quality, an ecstasy urge which is fascinating.

One can imagine that the motto of the birds in songland is "each in his own tongue." If a bird cannot have the cathedral tone of the hermit thrush or the liquid tilt of the robin, perhaps it is just as well that it be a neighborly, timely alarm clock in feathers.

Most people are anxious to get anything free, even if it is entirely worthless.

The most expensive luxury of the present era is keeping up with the neighbors.

What we need, as much as anything, is a few thousand men who will work as hard for the whole nation as they will for a private corporation.

A non-professional married a circus fat lady in the South and would appreciate it if friends would cease saying "I think you've got something there."

To think that spelling bees should come back in this sophisticated age! And now, after we've learned to spell all the words, maybe we'll learn to pronounce 'em.

Love is for Tomorrow

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

CHAPTER I

"HERE IT IS, Sandy—the third perfumed note in two weeks. Your fan mail is terrific!" Bee Colton leaned over a desk littered with papers, to address the tall and serious young man working so feverishly on a radio script. She waved a square, gray envelope aloft before depositing it with much ceremony in front of Andrew K. Knight.

"Like every other person in the offices of radio station KROX, Bee knew that Sandy heartily disliked the work he had taken over temporarily when his friend, Mike Borst, was called out of town.

"Ah, it's food for romance, my son," she suggested. "She probably is some beautiful young thing who has fallen in love with your radio personality and—"

"Cut! You disbelieving females are what's wrong with this world, anyhow. Why can't you give another woman a break? Those are the most genuine letters I've ever read."

Sandy referred to the letters written by Alicia "Tiny" Day. Soon after he took over the Children's Hour program, he had received the first note from this worried mother whose son was seriously ill. Jamie, she said, had derived so much happiness from the program that he had insisted on her writing a rather unusual request. "He wants you to send him a 'recipe' on how to become a radio announcer when he gets well," explained Mrs. O'Day. Sandy was amused and a little touched by this plea from a gallant young mother. He made up a nonsensical formula and forwarded it with a picture of himself taken during hazing days at college. "This should cure the young rascal of his ambitions," he chuckled as he sent the damaging evidence to young Jamie. A subsequent letter thanked him for his thoughtful buoyancy, but contained the disturbing news that Jamie was no better.

Bee looked speculatively at the third note which Sandy was handling gingerly. What would be the next move?

Just the same I'll bet she'd be glad to change O'Day to Knight any time in the week," she said cryptically, and chanted:

"Sandy Andy,
You're no dandy.
But you surely get the ladies
And the ladies' sickly babies
With your soulful,
Vibrant mouthful
Of radio pa-la-ver!"

Sandy flushed to the roots of his blonde hair, and Bee thought again how attractive was this sincere and unassuming young chap. Since he had come to KROX to take over the unaccustomed duties of conducting a radio program, he had had a host of friends. He took himself and everyone else too seriously for his own good, but strangely enough this was an important part of his attractiveness.

"The daffy kind," Sandy chuckled as he cut open the envelope. "He probably wants to be a lion tamer now. And great training that would be for a job like this."

He read the first line of Mrs. O'Day's letter, and then ejaculated. "Great Jumping Jesus! Listen to this!" Bee paused in the doorway, startled by the excitement in his voice.

"It's that woman again, and little Jamie! She's going to commit suicide. Discouraged, she says. There's a lot about the baby being worse and then she says, 'We are taking the boat this afternoon, and that will be the end of the adventure of me and my son.'"

"Do something, don't sit there," said Bee, her eyes filling with tears.

"WASHINGTON—The last time Senator Robinson saw the leader for whom he fought, was on the Sunday three days before he died.

Robinson had spent the entire day down the Potomac indulging in his favorite pastime—fishing. He had gone out in a small boat with Leslie Bille, secretary to the Senate majority, and with Russell Arundel, former secretary to ex-Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island.

Senator Robinson was a really expert fisherman. It was not a question of luck with him. If there were fish to be had anywhere around him, he got them. And on this particular Sunday, his last day of fishing, he hauled them in almost as fast as they could bite. He caught about a hundred Norfolk spots, throwing the hardheads into the water.

Roosevelt, who also prides himself on being a good fisherman, always keeps the hardheads, which are easy to catch, and brings them back to the White House.

Senator Robinson fished all day. The sun was hot, but he appeared to be having a wonderful time. His spirits were at their highest. They were especially high when at the close of the day he saw Roosevelt's yacht, the Potomac, sail by.

And from his small boat, the Senator looked up at the chief whom he served, and remarked: "I'll bet he's got nothing on board but hardheads."

New Senate Leader

Senator Alben Barkley, who in all probability will succeed Joe Robinson as Majority Leader of the Senate, would be the first sympathetic New Dealer Roosevelt has had in that position.

Joe Robinson was a good soldier out of sympathy for the woman who had found it so little worth while to battle the problems of her world.

He tore open the telegram feverishly.

Sandy jumped up, paced the floor, nervously combing his hand through his blonde hair. He strode up and down the small office, staring over the wastebasket, gazing out over the uninspiring skyline of downtown Los Angeles, and muttering to himself.

"For once, I'm thankful for the radio," he said, and began to jot down a memorandum for an emergency broadcast. Within 14 minutes he had notified the police, the newspapers, and the steamship agencies of the threatened suicide and before the hour was out he had broadcast an urgent plea to Mrs. O'Day to have courage and to come to him for aid. The radio station's switchboard sparked with red lights as calls began to pour in from sympathetic listeners who were anxious to help forestall a tragedy.

Big Tom Fitch, head of the local office, stormed into Sandy's cubicle to demand an explanation for the way he had confiscated radio time. He remained to plan with Sandy how to save Mrs. O'Day from her desperate ends.

"Golly, it's too bad we can't sell this program to the O'Brien Detective Agency," moaned Oscar, the wisecracking office boy. "It's sure a shame to waste a real tear jerker like this one."

"What a soul you have, my son," Bee told him disgustedly.

"At least, it's too bad she isn't a relative of mine!" he said, remembering previous holidays earned on the strength of a pernicious dying grandmother.

"You'll get a permanent vacation if you don't act more human, and get to work."

"It isn't human to work like I do," he countered, but obediently went over to the Journal's city desk to deliver full data on the O'Day case.

Sandy waited impatiently for some response to his efforts, furious at the lack of knowledge that handicapped the search for mother and son. The first letters were dated La Cresta, a small town along the coast of southern California. The last one bore a postmark in Los Angeles, and he feared that already he was too late.

The night staff came on duty and still Sandy sat at his desk. His long body was draped dejectedly on the swivel chair and he stared aimlessly to and fro. His gray eyes were clouded with worry, and his fingers drummed impatiently on the desk. A green shaded lamp cast a small spot of brightness in the room.

Suddenly, a Western Union messenger edged into the arc of light, and handed Sandy a telegram addressed to himself. He tore it open feverishly.

"Well, I'll be a cockeyed sailor!" he exclaimed. "A cheap joke, and with me for the good natured sucker again. I'm fed up. FED UP!" He read the telegram again to be sure. Dated La Cresta, he hurriedly scanned the wire:

"THERE IS NO MRS. O'DAY. NO JAMIE. STOP LETTERS WRITTEN BY LADY NAMED MADDEN WHO LIVES BY THE GREAT PALM POINT."

"A FRIEND."

Suddenly he grabbed his hat and tore from the office, banging the door behind him.

"Miss Johnston," he said to the night operator, "call the papers, call the police, and tell them all that the O'Day tragedy is just a comedy. Tell them there is no Mrs. O'Day, no dear sick son, only a lady named Madden—oh, yes, and a dumb but willing radio announcer. But before you do that, call the garage and have my car ready—I'm going to get out of this town, and get out quick!"

"But Mr. Knight, you can't do that. What about the program?"

"The program will go on all right. Blakeslee can handle it, and Mike will be back Monday. And you might tell Blakeslee for me not to believe all he reads in the papers. Here!"

He thrust the crumpled telegram in her hand, drew his shoulders up in a semblance of defiance, and whipped through the office.

ster, "an unfit person or thing claiming superiority."

Note—According to Barkley's wife: "He doesn't mind being a grandfather, but he hates like the devil to be married to a grandmother."

Congressional Wives

There is one potent reason why the present session of Congress may come to an earlier close than was anticipated.

It is Congressional wives.

Every wife of a Senator over 55 years old is now dining him to close the session and get home, before the same thing happens to him which happened to Senator Robinson.

Undercover Attack

A piece of evidence has fallen into Administration hands indicating that despite William Green's public endorsement of the wage-hour regulation bill, his henchmen secretly are against it.

It consists of a letter written by Representative E. E. Cox, bitterly anti-labor Georgian, to George L. Goetz, chief A. F. of L. organizer in the South and Green's personal choice to combat C. I. O. organization of Southern textile workers.

In his letter, Cox acknowledged receipt of a telegram from George "expressing opposition to the wage-hour bill," but warns him that the bill will be passed by the House.

"I am strongly opposed to the measure," Cox wrote, "but it came with Administration approval and, in my judgment, is certain to be put through the House. I think we might as well prepare ourselves for this legislation, as objectionable as it is. It is my idea that it will be put through in such form as to make it certain the Court will hold it unconstitutional."

Administration leaders plan to use the document to induce Green to crack down on his lieutenants; also as an argument showing the need for additions to the Supreme Court in order to ensure the validity of the legislation.

To invoke cloture requires a two-third vote, however, and although it has been proposed many times, it has actually been invoked only four times since the rule was adopted in 1917. These occasions were: November 13, 1919, on the question of the German treaty; January 22, 1926, on the World Court; February 15, 1927, on the McFadden Banking bill; and February 28, 1927, on the bill to create a Bureau of Customs and Prohibition. Cloture has not been invoked at any time in the past ten years.... J. H. Lamar, Mo.—It is not necessary for a CCC applicant to be a member of a family on relief. PLASTIC SURGERY AIDS CASE OF CLEFT PALATE

The most serious and repellent of the deformities of the face are cleft palate and hare lip, or cleft lip. The cause of these deformities has never been discovered. During the formation of the body the face grows around from the back towards the front and joins in the middle. We see some remains of this union in the small depression in the lip, and in some people a depression at the tip of the nose. Also the commonest form of dimple is a cleft in the middle of the chin.

When the two halves of the face fail to unite, a gap is seen on the side of the lip—cleft lip. This may be simple, or the cleft may extend back into the nostril and involve the hard palate, leaving an opening between the mouth and the nose—cleft palate.

About one child in every 2,500 is born with some form of this disfigurement.

Should be Corrected

Cleft lip should be corrected at about the age of six weeks. The infant by that time is physically able to stand the strain of operation. Surgical reconstruction of the lip should be done at this time whether there is an accompanying cleft palate or not, because repair of the lip tends to make the palate come together so that there is a smaller deformity.

Surgical work on the palate is deferred by most plastic surgeons until 18 months. Closure should be attempted at this time because serious speech defects which in most instances can be corrected.

But it is never too late for improvement of a cleft palate. It is noticeable that small communities always have one or two cleft palate inhabitants—village eccentrics. This is because surgical work on cleft palate is a most difficult and special job, and smaller communities are without adequate facilities for this work. These people suffer a great handicap, and it should be a comfort to them to know that some correction can be made at any time, even though the good cosmetic results that can be expected in earlier life are not likely to follow.

In these late cases, and in all severe cases of cleft palate, a series of operations is usually necessary to accomplish perfect results.

Flying Atlantic in Big Transport Planes Promise to Be Pretty Dull

By DEVON FRANCIS

Associated Press Aviation Editor
NEW YORK, July 17.—Flying the Atlantic on those big commercial transports promises to be pretty dull, unless the whales blow.

The whales do blow sometimes, and everybody stretches his neck to see, like the crowd around a hawk on 42nd street. But outside of that, the citizenry probably will be a bit bored when the big winged boats start shuttling to Europe. The newly inaugurated New York-Bermuda service supplies an index to what spanning the Atlantic will be like in the comparatively near future.

The boats are big, impersonally sophisticated. Here and there is a hit of a woman's touch on the interiors—such as in the linen curtains at the portholes—but for the most part they are merely great-winged flying machines built to a purpose.

They are not spectacular, either in performance or in the conduct of the personnel. They are efficient products of a mechanical age, and the bridge, up forward, looks vaguely like the cabin of a sleek, high-wheeled steam locomotive.

The hull is as wide as a pullman coach. Five bulkheads divide it into compartments in which eight persons can sit comfortably. Each compartment makes up, at night, into four berths, two upper and two lower. The aisle, amply wide, is carpeted, and on the cabin walls and ceiling are lights for night reading.

Both forward and aft are passenger loading hatches. The traveler strolls around at will, once the ship is under way, and as the load shifts from bow to stern the men on the bridge "trim" the ship with an ingenious device which increases or decreases the lift of the tail assembly.

There are storage compartments fore and aft for baggage, express and mail. Either near the bow or the stern, depending on the type of boat used, are the lavatory and the kitchen. On the Bermuda run the kitchens measure about 5½ by 3 feet.

Let a housewife try serving 30 persons from a workbench of that size. The kitchens look much like those in city kitchenette apartments. Some have electric heaters, but for the present at least hot meals will issue from insulated jugs.

Aluminum shelves with slots for securing tumblers, silverware and dishes range about the steward as he stands in his cubicle. The handles of cups slip over spring straps above him. Over him, too, are fruit cocktail glasses, their bases caught in aluminum slots. In front of him is an ice box holding 75 pounds and to his side is a 5-gallon water tank. This water table measures 3½ by 2½ feet. Below his feet, their covers swinging up at the touch of his shoe, are two compartments with storage space for 300 pounds of non-perishable food.

He serves dinner for 30-odd persons, soup to nuts, in a little more than an hour.

Takeoff Uneventful
The takeoff of the ship is uneventful. You settle into your seat. The ship taxis for the takeoff. The motors turn up. Just forward of the ship's midsection the great wings spread, and by peeping out a porthole you can glimpse a three-bladed propeller thrashing the air.

Salt water thrown up by the hull under the impetus of four motors spews against the porthole windows. Then the ship lifts to its "step," the underportion of the hull which rides on top of, instead of in, the water. For a brief moment foam whips from the shout of the boat. Water drains from the porthole windows. Abruptly the spray ceases flying.

You are up.
The purser and steward fuss about, distributing magazines, preparing meals, answering calls of bridge players for collapsible tables. There is little or no sensation of motion.

The navigator unscrews a porthole cover and tosses out an aluminum powder bomb to determine drift. The atmosphere is that of an ocean surface liner, even to the presence of the candid camera fiends.

Maybe you sight that whale, a dark blob on the great saucer of the big sea, or a surface ship, a toy boat in a millpond. Presently you eat. The purser doubles in brass, doffing his blue coat in favor of a white one to help the steward.

Someone remarks, "we're in." Necks crane. Within minutes a dark ribbon on the horizon sweeps under you. Houses pop out of the ground. The ship banks gently. Blue water, a cove, swings into line with the nose of the hull. The flaps come down. The hull streaks along the surface. Spray flies and salt water pours against the ports.

Surprisingly fast, the ship eases to coasting speed.

Folding ladders drop from the roof for exit.

The purser puts away his spray gun. He has been filling the cabin with that stuff housewives use to kill flies and mosquitoes.

"Regulations," he volunteers. "Government . . . insects . . . can't bring 'em in from another country."

It was pretty dull if you didn't sight that whale.

JOB-SEEKERS WERE FEWER IN JUNE

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Secretary Perkins said that registered unemployment was the lowest in the history of the United States employment service last month and that private placement of workers was the second highest of record.

Announcing that 224,692 private jobs had been filled by the service in June, Miss Perkins said new applications were fewer than in June of last year.

The number of job-seekers actually registered with the service declined to 5,016,014 at the end of the month, a 5.5 per cent decline from May and a 22.8 per cent reduction compared with the previous June.

Suggestions For Modern Wardrobe Made by Expert

Miss Elaine G. Tripp
"Plan to toss your whole summer wardrobe into the washbowl," says Rosenthals featuring this week "Luxe Wardrobes" for town and country.

"Washable fabrics are lovelier than ever, and are being shown for the smartest fashions. They're heaven-sent for budgets! Lukewarm water and a mild flake soap are all you need to keep that enviable "out-of-the-handbox" look."

Miss Elaine Tripp, a washability expert from the Lux Laboratories in Cambridge, Mass., will be at Rosenthals all this week. Here are her ten "fine fabric commandments" that, faithfully followed, will turn these things out of the washbowl smart as new.

1. Always test new materials for color fastness before washing.
2. Always use a mild neutral soap.
3. Use lukewarm or cool water.
4. Wash by squeezing suds through and through. Never rub.
5. Never soak colored materials.
6. Rinse thoroughly in lukewarm or cool water.
7. Roll in Turkish towel to absorb moisture. (If material is hung up too wet, it is likely to streak.)
8. Unroll at once and dry in the shade, away from excessive heat.
9. Always use a barely warm iron, never a hot iron.
10. Never iron colored materials in double thickness.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday July 25, 1937.

Golden Text: Psalms 117:2. "The truth of the Lord endureth for ever. Praise ye the Lord."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Blessed art thou, O Lord: teach me thy statutes. Thy righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, and thy law is the truth" (Ps. 119:12,142).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Beyond the frail premises of human beliefs, above the loosening grasp of creeds, the demonstration of Christian Mind-healing stands a revealed and practical Science. It is imperious throughout all ages as Christ's revelation of Truth, of Life, and of Love, which remains inviolate for every man to understand and to practise" (p. 98).

Henry Shaw The Developer of the Famous Missouri Botanical Garden

In 1851, Henry Shaw, wealthy retired St. Louis merchant, attended the first World's Fair in London. While visiting the famed grounds of Chatsworth—the great house of the hereditary chiefs of Devonshire—Henry Shaw asked himself why he, too, should not have a garden. Thus was born on the grounds of one of the most magnificent and historic private residences of Europe the idea from which originated the St. Louis own world famous Missouri Botanical Garden.

Shortly afterward, Shaw returned to St. Louis. Here, on a large tract of land which he had acquired in 1842-1843 and upon which, in 1849, he had erected his country mansion, Henry Shaw laid out his "Botanical Garden" and "Tower Park" to the adornment and improvement of which he devoted the remaining years of his life.

Additional significance is given to the idea conceived at Chatsworth when the fact is recalled that the ultimate plan of Shaw's life was to accumulate a fortune in America which should enable him to return to his native England. That Shaw chose, instead, to remain in the United States and to realize in St. Louis the idea dearest to his heart as an Englishman, was the good fortune of the United States and St. Louis.

Henry Shaw was born in Sheffield, England, July 21, 1800, the son of a manufacturer of grates and fire-irons. As a youth he attended Mill Hill school near London, the one-time home of Peter Collinson, eminent eighteenth century English botanist. Here, amidst surroundings that commanded superb views which included broad lawns shaded by trees planted by Collinson, Shaw absorbed a classical education which later enabled him to become an excellent mathematician and French scholar.

In 1818, a youth not yet twenty, Shaw emigrated to Canada with his father, who shortly afterwards sent him to New Orleans to learn the cotton business. The next year, in 1819, he decided to try his fortune in the then remote French trading post of St. Louis.

MAKE YOURSELF RIGHT AT HOME!

WANDERERS in strange places welcome most of all the sight of a familiar face . . . the friend from home met by chance. And rare indeed is the out-of-towner who does not gravitate to the news-stand selling his home-town paper.

Eagerly, too, travelers welcome the sight of familiar products upon the shelves of unfamiliar stores. Thank advertising for that! Shopping at home, you have a pleasant sense of confidence and security. You know the merchants . . . you know what they sell.

National advertising and national distribution make it possible for you to have that same confidence wherever you are! On vacation trip or business trip . . . no matter what your needs . . . you can always buy a KNOWN product—the brand that is like a friend.

Read the advertisements often, and thoroughly. They'll make you right at home anywhere in the country.

Fighting Breaks Anew By Chinese And Japanese

tive of Foreign Minister Wang Chung-Hui.

Yesterday Japanese army officers at Tientsin reported an agreement for settlement of the conflict in the Peiping-Tientsin zone had been reached by Japanese and Chinese military commanders in the area, the Chinese accepting verbally the Japanese demands.

Hidaka, according to Nanking dispatches, declared he could not accept the statement of the Chinese government's attitude. He told the envoy he would wait until midnight for the Nanking government to reconsider and submit a new reply.

Doubt Value of Agreement
Although Tokyo officials watched the Nanking exchanges closely and expressed doubts of the value of the Tientsin agreement, reports from Peiping indicated the situation was less tense.

A dispatch to the Asahi said troops of the Chinese 29th army had been removing barricades and war equipment from the area west of Tientsin in compliance with the Japanese demands.

(Previous Sino-Japanese crisis in North China have been settled between Japanese commanders on the spot and local Chinese officials. The Japanese army, a dominant factor in determining China policy, had insisted that any settlement of the present dispute must be local and that Nanking's acceptance or otherwise was of little importance.)

Concerning the airplane-train clash Japanese admitted their planes had fired on the trains at Yunanshih, 170 miles south of Peiping on the Hankow railroad, but declared the troops aboard the trains had first fired on the Japanese war craft.

The Chinese declared their troops had suffered many casualties in the swooping attack.

Japan, scouting reports than any truce had been reached at the Tientsin conference Sunday, charged heavy concentrations of Chinese troops had violated an agreement which the Japanese army says forbids Nanking Chinese government from sending troops into north China.

First reports of Chinese troop mobilizations drew a warning from Japan that she considered a violation of the Ho-Imezu agreement which formed the basis for the charges of "invasion" made today.

Japanese forces extended their control of Tientsin by enforcing a strict mail censorship.

Anti-Communist Russians in Japanese employ passed on all mail to and from the Soviet Union, Japanese officials censored all mails to and from the rest of China.

Foreign consular officials considered a joint protest to Tokyo, charging interference with China's postal autonomy as guaranteed by international agreement.

Dr. H. H. Kung, Chinese finance minister, arriving at Southampton, Eng., from the United States, expressed hopes that the Sino-Japanese crisis could be settled amicably and added, "I also hope the Japanese government will realize the danger of any other course."

Apart from the war zone, bandits at Mukden, Manchoukuo, killed two Japanese officers, five Japanese soldiers and one Manchoukuo guard. Five Japanese were wounded in the clash with the bandits which occurred northeast of here.

Says It's Up To Japan

KULING, China, July 19.—(AP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the Chinese central government, declared today it is up to Japan to decide whether there will be a "major war between China and Japan."

In his first public statement since the Sino-Japanese crisis began, the Chinese leader said his nation does not want war but added "we may be forced to defend ourselves."

He painted a grave picture of the situation in an address before a convention of China's education and technical leaders.

TORNADIC WIND HITS LEBANON

LEBANON, Mo., July 19.—A dozen homes were damaged and hundreds of trees uprooted by winds of tornadic proportions in this vicinity early today.

Two hundred telephones in Lebanon were put out of order and electric service was disrupted for a time.

There were no reports of persons injured. Rain was general over south central Missouri.

RUSH MAILING OF ASSISTANCE CHECKS

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—A total of 24,274 old age assistance checks, averaging about $12.70 each, will be mailed by tonight for July payments. George Haworth, acting state social security director, announced today.

This will include checks to all counties in the alphabetical list down to Jackson county. The remainder of the checks will be mailed out by the latter part of the week.

Haworth said 15,582 checks totaling $198,324 for 59 counties already were in the mails, and that 8,692 additional checks totaling $107,770 for 17 counties were being prepared for mailing today.

Checks are Increased

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—George Haworth, acting state social security director, released the following figures today on old age assistance to be paid recipients this month in Marion, Nowaday, Pettis and Randolph counties, as compared with June payments.

Marion—768 to be paid $8,924 in July; 652 paid $7,524 in June.
Nowaday—644 to be paid $7,253 in July; 478 paid $5,365 in June.
Pettis—1,436 to be paid $12,665 in July; 713 paid $8,203 in June.
Randolph—866 to be paid $9,938 in July; 579 paid $6,412 in June.

Foes Of Court Bill Will Call For Early Vote

him that I believed its enactment would not be in the best interests of the country," he asserted. "In the months that have passed since then my convictions have become strengthened."

"Like many others, I have frequently felt keen disappointment that important measures have been unconstitutional by a slim and unconvincing margin in the supreme court, and yet I believe that the orderly and deliberate processes of government should not be sacrificed merely to meet an immediate situation."

"From the broad standpoint of the public's interest, whatever immediate gain might be achieved through the proposed change in the court would, in my opinion, be far more than offset by a loss of confidence in the independence of the courts and in governmental procedure."

The governor's letter, made public by the executive offices while he is on vacation, pointed out that he has supported most of the President's social program both when Mr. Roosevelt was governor of New York and since he became President.

"I look forward to the opportunity of continuing to support his courageous leadership in matters that are in the interests of the social well-being of our people," he wrote. "This bill, however, I believe to be contrary to their interests. Its enactment would create a greatly dangerous precedent which could be availed of by future less well-intentioned administrations for the purpose of oppression or for the curtailment of the constitutional right of our citizens."

President Roosevelt, when New York governor, often affectionately referred to Lehman—his lieutenant-governor for two terms—as "my good right arm."

At the end of their four years together at Albany, when Mr. Roosevelt was looking toward Washington, he supported Lehman as his successor.

President Roosevelt was credited with influencing Lehman to accept a third term as governor, which he began last Jan. 1, after he had announced his intention to retire.

It was the first time that the governor, a New York City banker in private life, has expressed opposition to Roosevelt administration policies since he became New York governor in 1933.

In Washington, White House sources refused comment on the letter of Governor Lehman. Comment likewise was lacking from Senator Wagner, Wagner's office said the senator had not received the governor's letter yet. He was on his way to Washington, having visited a New Jersey resort over the week end and at Avon, he said he had no comment until he saw the letter.

Senator Copeland (D., N. Y.) said "I'm not surprised" when he was informed of Lehman's expression of views.

"And I'm glad to hear it," he told reporters. "Governor Lehman is a patriot and a good American. He would be against anything that would be a blot on our national life."

A few minutes earlier Copeland had announced in Washington his determination to enter the New York City mayoralty race on an anti-new deal platform.

Senator King (D., Utah) said Lehman's "courage" will animate others to follow his course."

Within an hour after the announcement of Lehman's letter, Walter T. Brown, the governor's secretary said, scores of "congratulatory" messages were delivered by telegraph to the executive office.

LAST RITES FOR SENATOR JOSEPH T. ROBINSON HELD

Nation's Leaders Join Arkansans in Tribute at Funeral Sunday

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 19.—The epic chapter of American history written by Joseph Taylor Robinson of Arkansas ended today in a flower-banked grave.

Scores of the nation's leaders joined thousands of saddened Arkansans yesterday in final tribute to the state's illustrious son who was returned to his native soil.

A blistering sun beamed throughout the forenoon. While the body lay in state at the Arkansas capitol, a sudden shower scattered the mourners briefly.

Again the sun shone. Clouds darkened the sky as the cortege entered the gates of Rose Lawn Memorial Park. Rain splattered the mourners as the Rev. H. Bascom Watts intoned the burial ritual. Then a torrential downpour sent family and friends alike scurrying for shelter.

Despite the weather, police maintained a guard over the grave until late last night, protecting the impressive floral display from souvenir hunters.

"Perhaps no man in our generation has been more nearly a representative American," said Mr. Watts in his funeral sermon at the church.

"When history of the congress, and the crucial issues before it, in the last three decades is scientifically presented by careful students of the period it cannot omit him from rank with the foremost."

Day of Public Sorrow

A day of public sorrow began with the arrival of Robinson's body on a special train from Washington. Accompanying it was his grief-stricken widow, members of her family, the congressional delegation and other distinguished visitors.

For a few hours the gray casket remained at the family home—a private period during which Mrs. Robinson was allowed to be alone. Then a military escort carried the casket to the state capitol where for three hours a constant stream of persons moved past it.

Flowers, from orchids to roses, banked the rotunda on three sides. Behind the casket the floral tributes rose twelve feet high.

Vice President Garner led the congressional delegation past the open casket. As he approached, the rugged Texan averted his head, refusing to look upon his long-time friend in death.

The prospect of a bitter party fight over selection of the successor loomed as the state Democratic committee was called into special session Friday.

Governor Carl E. Bailey indicated a special election would be held about Sept. 14 to fill the post. The 42-year-old governor, considered a certain candidate, held in his hands the power both to set the time for the election and to select a possible interim appointee.

Chairman Thomas Fitzhugh, who managed Bailey's gubernatorial campaign, issued a call for the meeting of the state Democratic committee. It is empowered to nominate the party candidate or order a primary.

A majority of the committee are politically aligned with the governor. It was indicated Brooks Hays, Democratic national committeeman, might receive the interim appointment but Bailey disclosed he had advised Postmaster General James A. Farley that he preferred to make no temporary appointment.

A stormy session of the state committee was presaged by the telegraphed protests of seven county committees against reports that a nomination would be made.

Should the committee nominate, other Democrats could run only as independents. Republican leaders remained silent on their plans.

SEIZED $3,000 IN DELIVERY TRUCK

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—A $3,000 holdup of a grocery market delivery truck was reported today to police.

Morris Lener, part owner of a market at 5367 Independence avenue, said three men in another car crowded the truck to a curb and seized store receipts which were being taken to a bank.

The calmest person in the truck was the youngest—12-year-old Otis Ringgold.

Lener and his mother, Mrs. Esther Lener, were too excited to give police any details but Otis calmly described the robbers.

ACCUSED OF THE KILLING OF WIDOW

JOLIET, Ill., July 19.—A few hours after the fatal slaying of his companion, Mrs. Minnie Bianco, 32, a widow of nearby Steger, Angelo Audi, 46, was charged today by authorities with murdering her.

A warrant was sworn out by Edward F. Powers, state's attorney's investigator, after a razor similar to the one used in the slaying was found in Audi's room. Audi, his throat slashed, was in a hospital in a serious condition.

Shoots and Kills Self

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 19.—David A. Ross, 43, Frisco railroad section worker, shot and killed himself this morning in his home here, Coroner J. P. Ferguson reported. His mother, Mrs. Emily Ross, lives in St. Louis. Five daughters and two brothers also survive.

Mrs. Blanche Collins and Family

Widow and children of the deceased W. J. Collins, city fireman, who died from burns received in a fire at 1314 Broadway Company, Saturday, July 10. This family is very appreciative of the consideration being given them by the citizens of Sedalia who have raised a purse now amounting to approximately $1,550. In a visit to the Democrat and Capital office Saturday Mrs. Collins expressed sincere appreciation for the generosity and sympathy thus expressed.

GREEN CALLS FOR DECISION ON TWO BIG PROBLEMS

Strategy Meeting To Be Held To Plan Fall Campaign on Lewis

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor asked his executive council today to decide in August two major problems of its fight against John L. Lewis' Committee on Industrial Organization.

1. Should the Federation push the organization of unions covering entire industries (the Lewis method) as well as the organization of its traditional craft unions?

2. Should a permanent increase in dues be recommended to finance the fight for labor leadership?

Green, calling this strategy meeting at Atlantic City, N. J., to plan the fall campaign against Lewis, said Federation membership of 3,991,000 on July 1 was 652,000 above the membership of August 31 last year. The C. I. O. claims more than 3,000,000 members.

The international board of the United Mine Workers—the union through which both Lewis and Green rose to labor prominence—asssembled, meanwhile, to decide Tuesday whether Green should be ousted.

On the other dwindling labor fronts: Cleveland—Federal Judge Samuel West ordered nine Ohio judges, indicted for retaining mails during steel strike, to trial Thursday. The nine pleaded innocent today.

Detroit—State-wide truck strike ended over week-end in a 30-day truce. Detroit milkmen's walkout settled by individual agreements.

Chicago—Week-old inquest into death of 19 persons in the Memorial Day steel strike riot neared adjournment.

Akron, O.—Partial settlement of truck drivers' strike which has tied up since Friday all interstate freight hauling out of Akron reached.

Detroit—Testimony resumed in national labor relations board hearing of charges that the Ford Motor Co. violated Wagner act by unfair treatment of employees.

WILL CONFER ON COMPENSATION ACT

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 19.—Andrew Murphy, member of the Missouri unemployment compensation commission, came here today to confer with representatives of the social security board on operations under the state's new compensation law.

Officials of the bureau of unemployment compensation, with whom Murphy was to meet, said he probably would submit a proposed budget for the state commission's operations.

Murphy called at the office of Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri and said he would seek a conference tomorrow, when Senator

BRITISH HOLD OUT FRIENDSHIP HAND TOWARD ITALY

Is No Intent by Great Britain to Pursue Aggression Policy

LONDON, July 19.—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden held out a hand of friendship to Italy today in an important declaration of British foreign policy.

"This country," Eden declared in house of commons foreign affairs debate, "has no intention of pursuing towards any country a policy either of aggression or revenge."

Eden declared this policy extended also to the Red Sea, another link in Britain's "empire life line."

Warning that Europe would "drift perilously nearer" to war unless sincere cooperation solved the Spanish neutrality deadlock, he declared sincere cooperation solved the Spanish meeting of the 27 European non-interventionist powers.

The foreign secretary opened debate by declaring no proposal to convene the signatories of the 1922 nine-power treaty was under consideration over the Sino-Japanese crisis in North China.

"We have expressed to both governments our earnest hope that the situation would not be aggravated and peaceful settlement might be reached," Eden said.

He reiterated Britain's hopes for amicable settlement of the "confused and anxious situation" and then switched discussion to the Spanish question.

Cheers broke throughout the house when the foreign secretary declared:

"What matters to us is not the way a government governs itself at home but the way it conducts itself abroad."

"If we will not join an international bloc against Communism—and we will not—neither will we join an international bloc against Fascism."

Eden expounded the British contention that:

"The League of Nations still exercises a valuable political influence. The League can be strengthened only by widening its membership."

Informed quarters interpreted this as an effort to make Geneva appear more attractive to the United States, Germany and Japan.

Great Britain believes that the way to international amity is through freer channels of world trade, Eden continued.

Again the foreign secretary was cheered when he concluded:

"Although the load of international anxieties remains heavy—although there can be no lasting confidence until international organization with world membership is entrusted with arbitration of our differences and conciliation of our disputes—I stand at this box today with a greater measure of hope than was possible a year ago that the nations of Europe will compose their quarrels and peace will be preserved."

HOUSE PASSES FLOOD CONTROL BILL

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 19.—The house passed and sent to the senate today a bill to authorize a $24,877,000 flood control program for the lower Ohio river basin.

The bill also would authorize preliminary flood control examinations and surveys on more than fifty streams in a score of states. It went through without a dissenting vote.

During debate on the measure Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio) praised it but said it ought to contain "ten times more money."

He added that many communities would be unable to meet requirements of the bill, which imposed on them the responsibility of supplying necessary land and paying damage costs in connection with construction of the projects.

Chairman Whittington (D-Miss) of the house flood control committee said the bill would provide "only a partial solution of the problem" of protection in the lower Ohio river basin.

Whittington said his committee planned to bring before the house next year a "comprehensive" flood control bill covering all rivers over the country.

President Roosevelt asked that such a measure be postponed this year, pending a further study by interested federal agencies.

KILLED BY POWER LINE IN A STORM

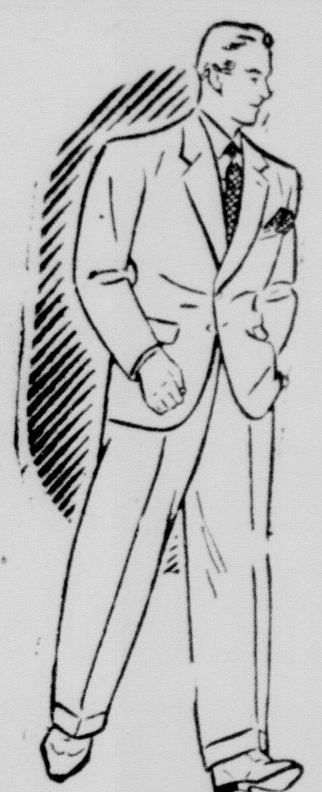

By The Associated Press.
PARSONS, Kas., July 19.—Jack Donald Webb, 19, was killed early today at Oswego by an electric power line that fell on him at the door of his home.

Webb had just returned home from Joplin with several companions and ran from the street to his house in rain and a windstorm. A falling tree limb knocked the wire onto his shoulder and he grasped it with both hands.

His parents and four sister survive.

Amelia Earhart And Noonan Are Given Up As Dead

but Friday the navy concluded the fliers had not landed on any of them.

The Lexington continued sending planes out Saturday and Sunday, however.

Despite the magnitude of the search, not a single casualty was reported. The cost of the search was not estimated but unofficially was set at several hundred thousand dollars.

The search was disheartening from the beginning, due to lack of definite information as to the position of Miss Earhart's plane when it flashed its last message at 2:14 p. m. (CST) July 2—"We are in the position of 157-337, x x x. We are now running north and south." The flyer reported gasoline was running low and she could see no land.

Numerous radio messages received in all points in the Pacific sometimes bolstered the hopes of the searchers, but apparently none was authentic.

Greatest Search For Flier

The search for Amelia Earhart constituted the greatest organized effort ever undertaken in behalf of a lost flier.

Slow to get under way because of the enormous distances involved, the rescue expedition finally embraced more than 3,000 men, ten ships, 102 American fighting planes and an undisclosed number of Japanese aircraft.

And it provided an appropriate climax to the ambitious but ill-starred world flight attempt of aviation's first lady.

Some long range flying experts made private comments when Miss Earhart last spring announced plans for a 27,000-mile air jaunt around the equatorial regions.

Unwilling to be quoted, they argued that ocean aviation had become a matter for big business—fleets of planes, chains of bases and radio stations, and many technicians operating as a coordinated unit.

Miss Earhart thought it might prove aid to a possible future air line in the South Pacific.

With a navigator and assistant pilot she left Oakland March 17 and flew 2,400 miles to Honolulu in record time to start the venture. There was little news to her in the Honolulu hop. She had flown alone from Hawaii to California as well as twice across the Atlantic—as a passenger in 1928 and solo in 1932—and these flights were only part of her spectacular 9-year rise to aviation peerage.

In Previous Crack-up

But in leaving Honolulu for a flight of more than 1,500 miles to tiny Howland Island her plane burst a tire and cracked up. White-faced, she climbed from the cockpit and announced she would have the plane repaired and start again.

Weeks later the plane was reconstructed in Los Angeles. The interim, involving seasonal changes on her route, caused her to reverse the direction of the flight.

With the Veteran navigator, Fredrick J. Noonan as her colleague she flew from Oakland to Miami, Fla., and started the world flight again on June 1.

In smooth hops they went 1,033 miles to Puerto Rico; to Caripita, Venezuela, 650 miles; in short jumps to Fortaleza, and Natal, Brazil.

From the latter point they flew without incident 1,900 miles across the Atlantic to St. Louis, Senegal, Africa, June 7.

Dodging stormy weather, Miss Earhart crossed Africa in stride to Assab, Eritrea, and then made two long hops to reach Calcutta, India. Leaving India for Siam June 18, she was forced back by bad weather and made an unsuccessful second start but next day flew to Rangoon, Burma.

Another series of short hops brought the fliers to Sourabaya, Java, where they had instruments repaired and rested three days.

They crossed the Dutch East Indies and northern Australia to Lae, British New Guinea, in three days.

The Final Dash

At Lae they faced the most difficult phase of the adventure—a 2,570-mile project over an unbroken and wild tropical region to tiny Howland Island, American outpost and potential air base in the equatorial Pacific. They left Lae July 1.

Half way between New Zealand and Howland Island the navy tug Ontario stood by to give the fliers radio information and any aid necessary. The coast guard cutter Itasca stationed itself at Howland and shooed the big ocean-going birds from recently constructed runways, anticipating the big plane's arrival.

The Itasca picked up the plane's radio at 2:45 a. m. Howland time, recognizing Miss Earhart's voice but not getting all the message which mentioned "cloudy weather."

An hour later Miss Earhart reported the sky overcast and asked the Itasca to broadcast every half hour on 3105 kilocycles, the radio frequency which figured so prominently in producing mystifying signals during the later search.

"Want bearing on 3105 kilocycles on hour; will whistle in microphone," said Miss Earhart to the Itasca at 5:12 a. m.

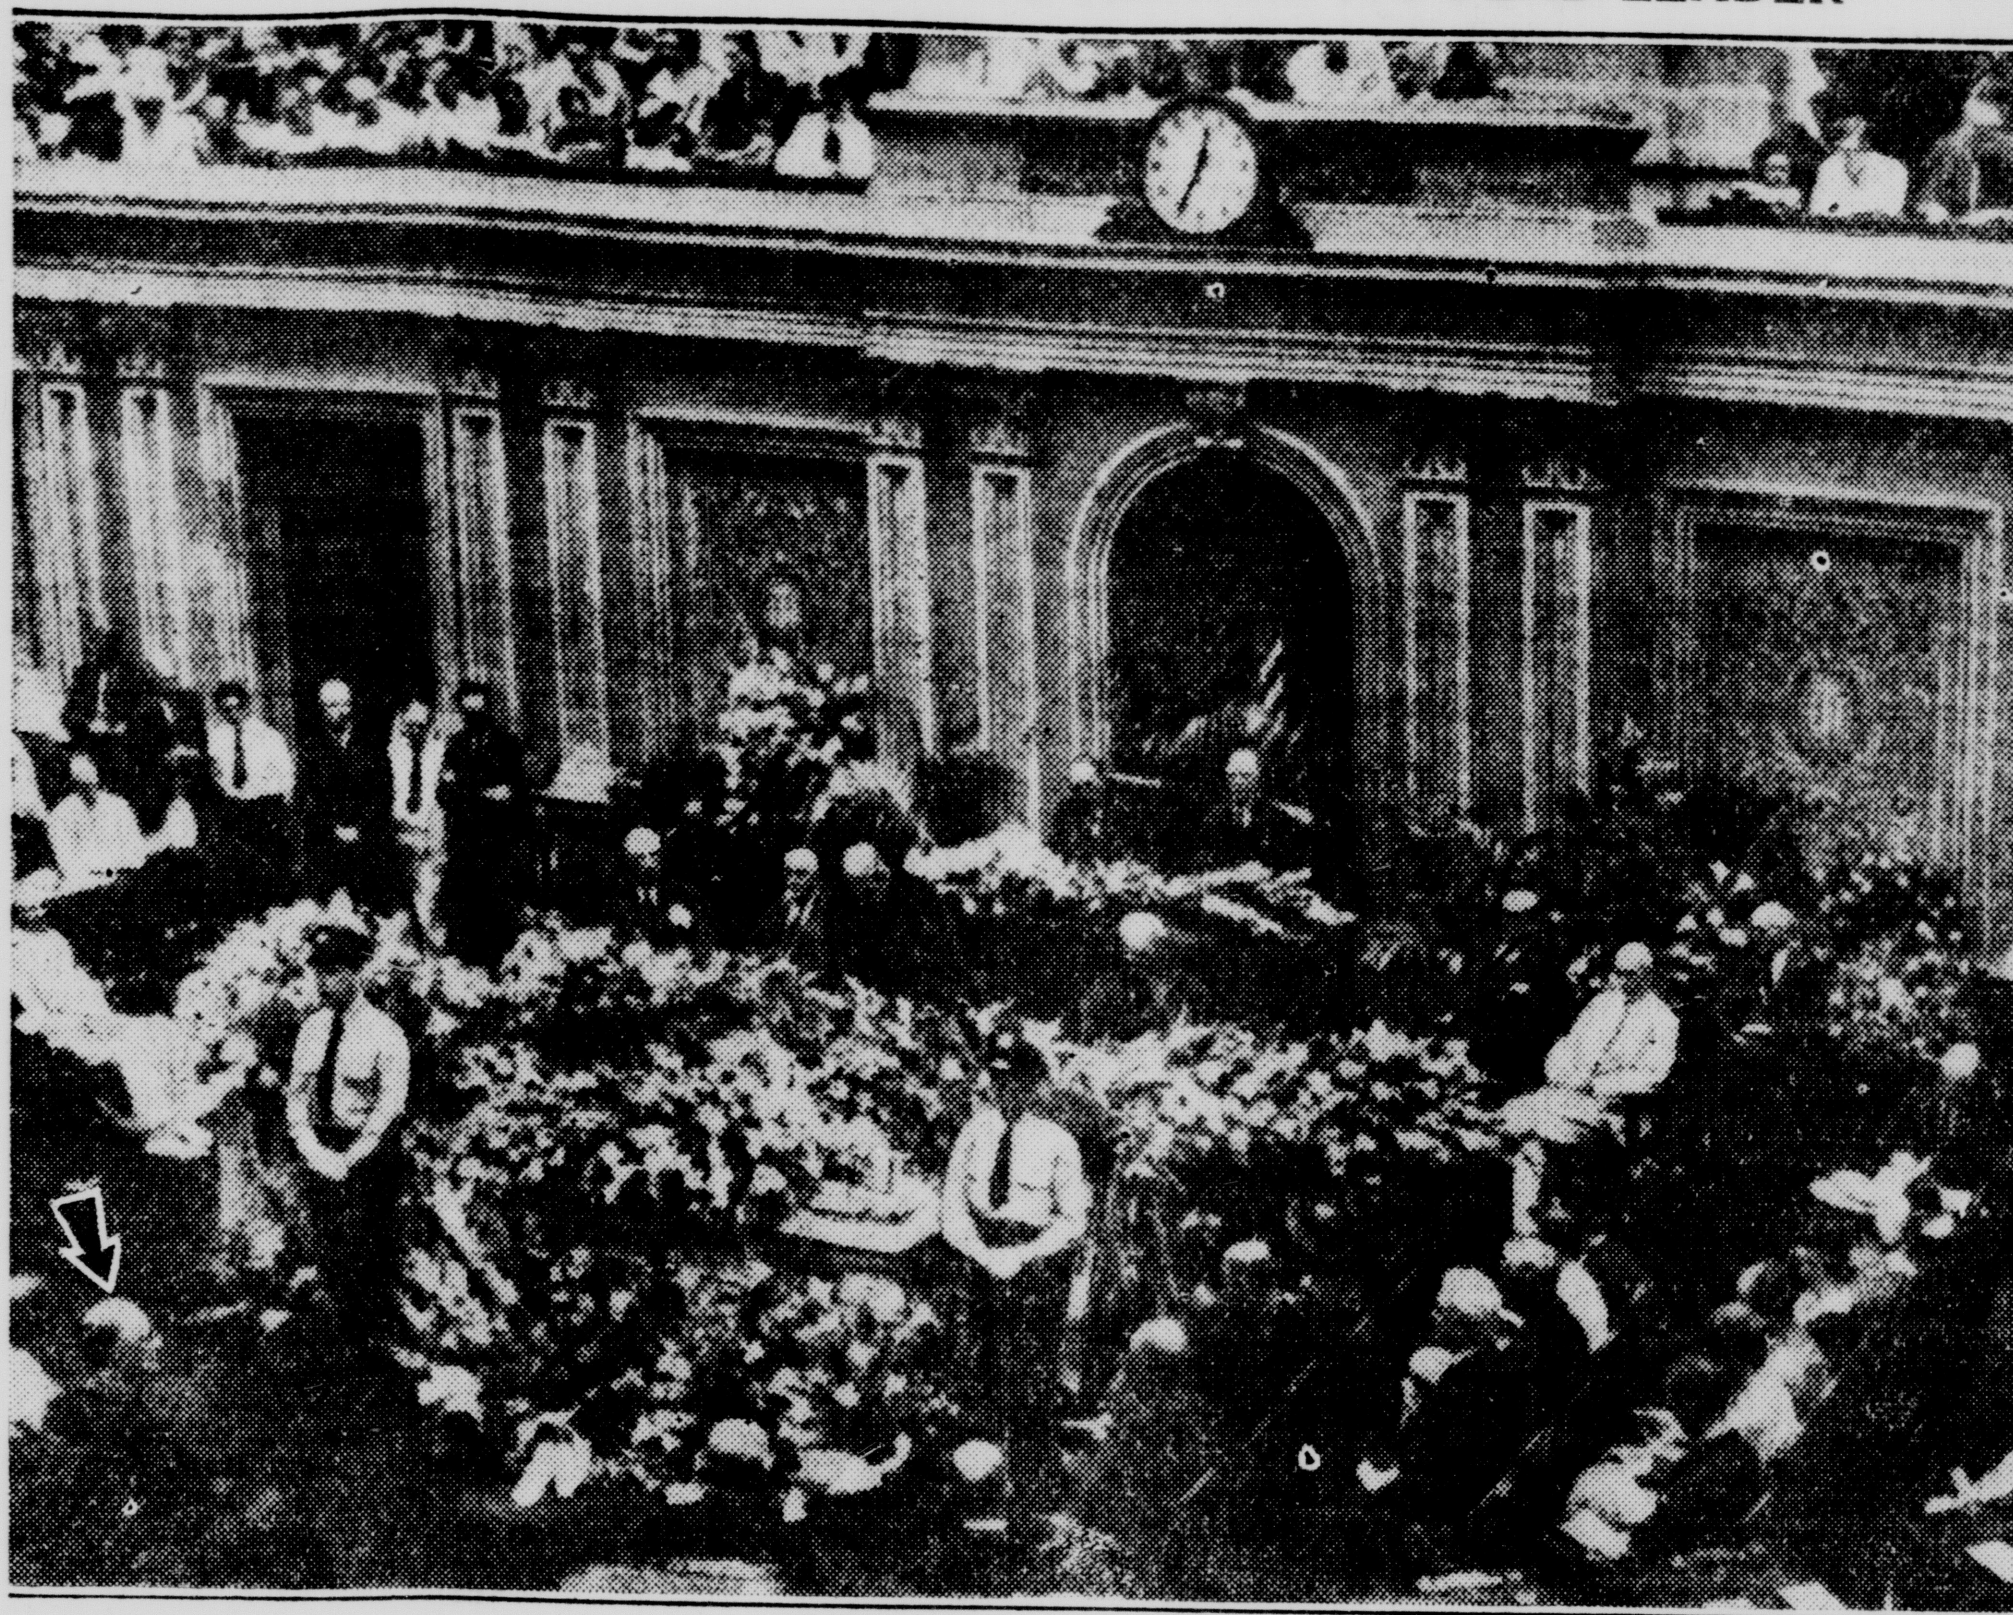

Last Radio Flashes

Three minutes later the cutter heard Miss Earhart whistle and report her plane 200 miles out. Thirty minutes thereafter she reported the plane only 100 miles away.

"We must be on you but cannot see you," the aviator reported at 7:30 a. m. "Gas running low. Have been unable to reach you by radio. We are flying at 1,000 feet."

"We are circling but can't see island," Miss Earhart broadcast at 7:57 a. m. "Cannot hear you. Go ahead on 7500 kilocycles with long counts either now or on schedule. Time on half hour."

"We received your signals but unable to get minimum," said the plane at 8:03 a. m. The "minimum" possibly indicated inability of the plane to obtain a radio bearing on the cutter, because Miss Earhart then asked the Itasca to take bearings and answer on 3105 kilocycles. She made radio dashes so the cutter could take a bearing but the Itasca was unable to make use of them because of their high frequency.

The last message from the plane in flight came at 8:44 a. m. (3:14 p. m. EST). It said:

"We are on line of position 157-337. Will repeat this message on 8210 kilocycles. We are now running north and south." The position report in the message was useless to worried listeners on the cutter because it gave only one of the necessary elements.

The Itasca began the search almost at once, scanning 3,000 miles of ocean without sighting a trace of the plane, which carried for signaling purposes a bright orange colored kite, a Very pistol for rockets and a supply of flares.

The next day a long-range naval plane with eight men sped out of Honolulu for a flight of more than 1,500 miles to the scene. Unidentified radio signals, some of them seemingly from Miss Earhart's plane, were reported by many listeners.

A snow, sleet and lightning storm caught the big navy plane high above the equatorial surface as it neared the scene, and it was forced to turn back when only 370 miles north of the equator.

Twenty-four hours after its take-off it returned to Pearl Harbor and its commander, Lieutenant W. W. Harvey, reported he had encountered his worst storm in ten years of flying.

Friends and relatives of Miss Earhart did not express great alarm. "She will come through all right," said her stepmother, Mrs. E. S. Earhart in Los Angeles.

George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, clung to the belief the plane would float indefinitely if undamaged. He counted upon its big gasoline tanks, with a capacity of 1,151 gallons, to give it buoyancy.

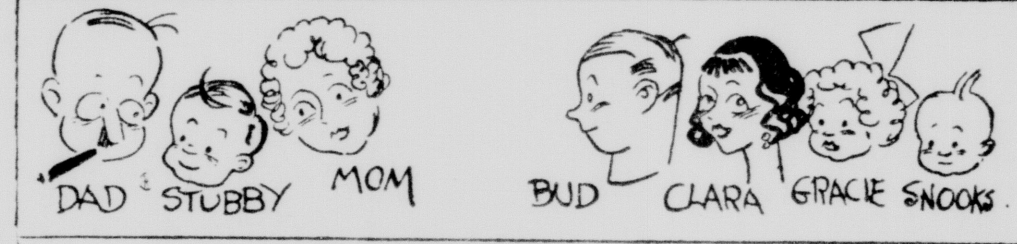

In Washington, Charles Horner, president of the National Aeronautics Association, was asked if he considered Miss Earhart's undertaking foolhardy.

"It would be awfully painful to say a thing like that in the face of such a tremendously courageous attempt," he observed, but added that his organization felt every such flight in the future should be "fully safeguarded."

In the belief the plane overshot Howland Island, the Itasca searched to the north and west pending arrival of other aid.

The battleship Colorado left Honolulu July 3 for the scene and the navy ordered the $40,000,000 aircraft carrier Lexington and three destroyers into the search.

DIES OF A HEART ATTACK AT BRIDGE

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 19—George Barton French, 73, retired railroad president and World war "dollar-a-year man," died of a heart attack Saturday night while playing bridge at his home.

French, a native of Richmond, Va., was the son of a partner of J. P. Morgan, the elder. He was for many years connected with the Chicago office of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, and in 1910 was appointed president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad. He was for a time a member of the United States reclamation commission.

A lifelong friend of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mr. French played golf with the Columbia university president a few hours before his death. His widow is the former Katherine Richards Gordon of St. Paul, Minn.

A Modern Girl Sidetracks Love

Marcia was a modern girl. She was intelligent and she was talented. Her demureness belied her business sense but as long as she possessed the latter, she intended to make the most of it. Her unquenchable bright spirit refused to be subdued by the clutching fingers of the shadows about her. She loved her work. Thus even when HE came into her life, she reasoned.

A'S WIN RUBBER GAME OF SERIES WITH VERSAILLES

Bailey Holds Midgets to Three Hits as Locals Gain 5-2 Decision

The Sedalia Athletics bested the Versailles Midgets in the third and deciding game of the season's series between the two clubs by winning Sunday's contest by a score of 5 to 2 before a large crowd at Liberty Park.

Bailey, a big righthander, was on the mound for the A's and except for a bad first inning pitched brilliantly. Displaying one of the local best curve balls seen in the local ball yard in some time, he set the Morgan county clubbers down with three hits and struck out 10. He was opposed by Lefty Prather who pitched a good game for the visitors but was unable to stop the A's with men on the bases.

The visitors scored a run in the first inning when Bailey walked Warnke and Coester. Warnke was forced at the plate on Alber's grounder to Lobaugh but Coester scored on Burke's grounder, to the same place.

The A's tied it up in their half of the inning when Light led off with a double and scored as Coester muffed Brownfield's drive to short stop. They counted another tally in the second inning when Lobaugh doubled and Bailey sent him across the plate with a single to center.

The Athletics' third run came in the fifth after considerable effort. Livengood singled and Bailey walked, but Light forced Livengood at third. Case forced Bailey at third before Summers singled to center to score Light.

The Midgets broke into the scoring again in the seventh with the aid of an error on Brewer's grounder.

The final runs of the game came in the seventh when the Sedalians scored twice. Light singled, Case bunted and was safe when Prather threw to second too late to catch Light. Small fanned but Light scored on Thomas' hot smash which Coester knocked down in time to get him at first. Case then counted on a wild pitch by Prather.

Versailles had won the first game of the series, 5 to 4, in 15 innings, and the Sedalians evened the count in the second contest with a 6 to 2 decision.

Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock the Athletics meet the Jefferson City Twedies under the Liberty park floodlights.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM TAKES 2-1 LEAD WITH TRIUMPH IN DOUBLES

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 19.—America's young California doubles combination of Don Budge and Gene Mako, whipped Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel, today 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4, and gave the United States a 2-1 lead in the Davis Cup interzone tennis finals with two more singles matches yet to be played.

Budge and Mako's brilliant victory in the crucial doubles test was regarded by most tennis critics as an almost certain guarantee that the Americans would win the series and thus gain the right to battle Great Britain for the coveted international trophy in the challenge round starting Saturday.

Even should Henkel defeat Bryan M. (Bitty) Grant of Atlanta in tomorrow's singles, Budge is considered a virtual certainty to whip Von Cramm for the deciding point.

The read-headed ace from Oakland, Calif., trounced Von Cramm in straight sets recently to win the all-England singles crown and nothing has occurred in the interzone finals thus far to indicate the titled Teton can turn the tables.

Budge handed Henkel a terrific thrashing in the second of last Saturday's singles matches after Von Cramm had whipped Grant in the opener just as conclusively.

Today's match found the Americans coming from behind in each of the last three sets to snare the vital point most observers believe they needed to clinch the series.

Booster—K. C. Police Game Halted by Rain With Score Tied 1-1

Rain halted the soft-ball game between the Kansas City Police and the local Missouri Pacific Boosters at Liberty Park Sunday night after four innings with the score tied at 1-1.

The Sedalians took the lead with a run in the third frame but the visitors tied the count in the fourth. Each team made but one hit.

Hays and Eirls formed the Booster battery while Buske started for the Policemen, but was relieved by Tisch in the fourth after the Sedalians had filled the bases with only one out. C. Aulgar was the K. C. catcher.

DIMAGGIO SPOILS FELLER FAMILY VISIT AFTER YOUNG BOB STOPS REST OF "MURDERERS' ROW"

CLEVELAND, July 19.—(P)—The Iowa family Feller—dad, mother, Pitcher Bob and pretty 8-year-old Marguerite—agreed today that who ever dubbed the New York Yankees baseball's "murderers' row" knew whereof he spoke.

Bob, the 18-year-old American League strikeout ace, went the route for the Cleveland Indians yesterday, held the dynamic Yankees in check for eight innings—then lost, 5 to 1, to lethal Joe Dimaggio.

Nearly 60,000 fans saw the slugger fielder from "Frisco" convert Feller's curve ball into a storybook hit—a home run in the ninth inning with the bases loaded and the score tied. Dimaggio rifled the ball into spacious Cleveland stadium's left field seats.

The Andrew Fellers and daughter, here from their Van Meter, Ia., home to see Robert William in action against the pennant bound Yanks, took the defeat philosophically. So did Bob.

"It's hard to beat those Yanks with one run, they're such a powerful lot of boys," remarked Mrs. Feller, a mild-mannered little woman. She was more concerned with the condition of her son's hurling arm, which gave him trouble until recently.

"Well, it isn't very easy," grinned Bob. "Still, if I had got that curve to breaking properly on the last pitch to Dimaggio, they might have been beaten."

"He had missed the first fast one by plenty, and barely got a piece of the next one. Then I had to give him a curve high and inside."

"Right up his alley, eh?" observed the father.

"Right where it was murder," replied Bob. "The idea was to have it low and outside."

"Murder in the third degree," remarked Mr. Feller. "But you just forget about the slow curve for a while, anyway."

"There was speed on this curve,"

"I know," the father said, understandingly. "I'm speaking strictly of the slow curve. You just forget it."

The husky young pitcher said with determination: "Once I get my control things will break better."

A contagious smile lighted sister Marguerite's face. She was silent, but her smile and dotting glances showed she thought Master Robert the greatest pitcher in baseball—despite "murderers' row."

The Anderson Club golf team made it two straight triumphs in its inter-city series with Higginsville, Lexington and Clinton here Sunday by taking the third match by a margin of 31 points.

The team totals: Sedalia 35½, Clinton 32½, Higginsville 29½ and Lexington 28½.

Bob Felthour of Clinton was medalist with 41-39—80 and was followed closely by his teammate, Howard Scott, with 42-39—81 and Henry Huffman of the home forces with 40-41—81. L. A. Agniel of Sedalia was high point man with 45½.

Members of the Sedalia team were: Pat Hood, Paul Goin, Henry Huffman, Buddy Agniel, "Cope" Copenhagen, John Nesbitt, Lucien Agniel, Melvin Winrod, L. A. Agniel, M. C. Ables, W. H. Winrod and Merl Chambers.

The teams will play at Clinton September 5.

Members of the Sedalia Country Club welcomed a new golf champion today in the person of E. M. Stafford, Jr., who annexed the title Sunday by defeating H. G. Yunker, 8 and 7, in the 36-hole finals of the club's annual championship tournament.

Yunker who had eliminated Dr. J. E. Cannaday, a former holder of the title in the semi-finals, trailed virtually from the start as Stafford went two up on the first eighteen with a medal score of 75 to his opponent's 78.

Stafford succeeds C. G. Wilson, many times holder of the championship, who was forced to pass up the tournament this year because of the pressure of business interests.

Phillip Hoffman won the Class "C" tournament with a 5 and 4 victory over Ralph Carrel. Play is still in progress in the "A" and "B" flights.

After this date I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by anyone other than myself. (Adv.) LUKE J. MILLER.

WHAM! HIS TIRE BLEW OUT AND A HAPPY VACATION CAME TO A SAD ENDING

Writes CLARENCE BUDINGTON KELLAND... famous author and creator of "Scattergood Baines"

The best part of my life has been spent in creating characters which I hope have entertained fiction lovers. But here is a story from real life—and if it saves any lives I'll more than be repaid for my effort.

It's about Rogers Cox of Newton Highlands, Mass. Rogers, his brother, sister and a friend had enjoyed two weeks of fishing, golfing, dancing, swimming. Now it was all over—except for the long drive back home. As they rolled along the Newburyport Turnpike the unexpected happened. It was just as if someone had stabbed a spike into a giant balloon. WHAM! A front tire collapsed. The car, out of control, sideswiped two trees before a third tree halted its wild course.

RECOVERY TRAIL ON STOCK LEADERS

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP)—With steel and motors beating a new recovery trail, stock market leaders today pushed up fractions to 3 points. There were a few wider gains. Business news, including highly satisfactory second quarter corporation reports, was to the liking of Wall Street and bids for favorites were lifted at the start.

U. S. Steel crossed 119, a new top for the current recovery. While activity was not pronounced, transfers were in the neighborhood of 550,000 shares.

CUMMINGS SEEKS PARDON FOR TWO

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 19.—Attorney General Cummings asked President Roosevelt to open prison gates for two men serving 25 year sentences in Ohio for a crime which Cummings said they did not commit.
The attorney general asked the President to pardon Anthony "Tony" Labrizetta, 34, and George Sargent, 39. Both are in Cuyahoga county jail, Ohio, for participation in the $135,000 mail robbery at Warren, O., in 1935.
Cummings did not disclose details of his report, but it was indicated at a reliable source that evidence unearthed by agents of the federal bureau of investigation subsequent to the pair's conviction pointed toward members of the notorious Karpis gang as the real culprits.
Alvin Karpis, leader of the gang, and his lieutenant, Harry Campbell, now are serving life sentences at Alcatraz penitentiary for violation of the Lindbergh kidnaping law.

HOMEMAKERS PLAN ANNUAL PICNIC

The Hopewell Homemakers Club held its regular meeting on Thursday, July 15th at the home of Miss Nora Beasley at Newland, with Mrs. Irvin Phillips assistant hostess.
At the noon hour a delicious luncheon was served out in the yard. The president, Mrs. Allen Payne presided at the business meeting.
There were 21 members present and four visitors.
The most of the meeting was spent in discussing the annual picnic which will be held August 19th, at Liberty Park, Sedalia.
Each member and their families are invited to attend.

WARNS ON OUT OF STATE WEDDINGS

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 19.—Judge William F. Borders, who advocates a closed season on husbands, warned Illinois couples today they "are only fooling themselves" when they marry in other states.
The outspoken jurist said out-of-state marriages not conforming to Illinois law are invalid for the state's residents.
The trek to gretna greens in Iowa and Missouri, nearby states, began when Illinois this year put into effect laws requiring medical certificates of freedom from social diseases, and imposed a three-day waiting period.
Judge Borders won national attention recently when he said, after five women had been shot here by rampaging wives in a brief period, that "there should be some sportsmanlike regulations on husband shooting the same as there are on ducks."
Th Judge also warned the Illinois law evaders they would be endangering their rights to share in each other's estates, should there be a legal test.

FLASHES OF LIFE IN LATE DISPATCHES

By The Associated Press.
Key To The Situation
NEWARK, N. J.—Police Sergeant Edward F. Tucker, off duty, strolled out of a restaurant and saw a young man trying to start a car.
"What's the matter, Bud?" he asked.
"Can't get it started."
"The ignition key is not in the lock," said the sergeant politely.
"I haven't got it," said the young man.
"I have," said Tucker. "It's my car."
So to jail.
Going, Going G—?
NORFOLK, Va.—Police put Johnnie Sowell on the auction block. Officers here said they received this message from police at Lufkin, Tex.:
"We have Johnnie Sowell in jail here. How much reward will you pay for him? He is wanted in several states and the man that pays the biggest reward is the man that is going to get him. Answer."
Add Fish Stories
OKLAHOMA CITY—Dr. Dale Collins swears to this:
He and his party caught 15 bass and strung them on a line. The line came loose and slipped into the lake. Collins diving unsuccessfully after them.
Fifteen minutes later he had a strike. Up came all 15 bass, still neatly strung.
Expensive Mouse Trap
NORTH LOUP, Neb.—An inquisitive mouse felt a cool breeze from a refrigerator motor in a store here on a recent warm day. It investigated, was electrified, and the motor burned out.
The damage was discovered before the meat in the refrigerator spoiled, but it cost $30 to replace the motor.
CALLED TO ST. LOUIS BY THE DEATH OF AUNT
Mrs. Dell Imberger and brother, John McNeerney, were called to St. Louis by the death of their aunt, Mrs. Crowley, who died Thursday and whose funeral was held this morning.
Mrs. Crowley was a sister of the late Mrs. Winifred McNeerney.

BUSINESS FOLLOWS CONCRETE
CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES
Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:
1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete your highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.
And in addition to these money-reasons concrete pavements give motorists relaxation... comfort... and swift travel with SAFETY!
